Social Studies 30
Grade 12 Diploma Examination

Description

Part A consists of 70 multiple-choice questions worth 70% of the total mark.

Part B consists of a written-response section worth 30% of the total mark.

It is recommended that you read the written-response questions in Part B before beginning the examination. Ideas appearing in the multiple-choice questions may assist you in composing your essay.

Time: 2 1/2 hours.
You may take an additional 1/2 hour to complete the examination.

Part A: Multiple Choice

Instructions

• Use an HB pencil.

• Write your name and the other required information on the back cover of this examination and on the separate answer sheet provided, as directed by the examination supervisor.

• Mark all your answers on the separate answer sheet.

Example

The capital city of Canada is

A. Vancouver
B. Winnipeg
C. Ottawa
D. Montreal

Answer Sheet

A  B  C  D

• Erase your first mark completely if you wish to change an answer.

• The presiding examiner will collect your answer sheet and examination booklet.

• Do not fold the answer sheet.
1. From a right-wing perspective, centrally planned economies have the greatest difficulty
   A. reducing inequalities in income
   B. providing incentives for innovation
   C. stabilizing fluctuations in the business cycle
   D. adjusting to the principles of economic cooperation

2. In recent years, Alberta has dramatically reduced government spending on health care and social services. Many government services have been privatized, and business activities have been deregulated.

   These actions are consistent with the ideology of
   A. democratic socialism
   B. demand-side economics
   C. laissez-faire economics
   D. fiscal interventionism

3. In which of the following categories is an incorrect comparison made between the theoretical bases of command and market economies?

4. Which of the following statements regarding the goals of democratic socialism is true?
   A. Governments should strive to reduce the civil service during recessions.
   B. Governments should strive to guarantee greater individual economic security.
   C. Governments should attempt to exempt corporations from paying business taxes.
   D. Governments should attempt to balance their budgets by decreasing transfer payments.
Use the following cartoon to answer questions 5 to 7.

5. The cartoonist is mainly suggesting that the

   A. privatization of the welfare system is necessary
   B. welfare system has been undermined by user fraud
   C. concept of welfare is relevant and needs to be expanded
   D. welfare system is an inefficient means of helping the needy

6. From the perspective of the far right, the solution to the problem that is illustrated in the cartoon would be to

   A. dismantle the system entirely
   B. increase the benefits for those in need
   C. devise alternative assistance programs
   D. reform the criteria for receiving benefits
7. Which of the following individuals would regard the cartoon as unfairly stereotyping the welfare state?

A. A social democrat
B. A conservative voter
C. A right-wing politician
D. A supply-side economist

Use the following excerpt to answer question 8.

Ford Motor Co. . . . realized it could save $11 billion, and build better vehicles, by rethinking how it puts together its cars and trucks.

By using identical parts for different models, Ford can reduce its inventory. . . . For example:
- Offering three types of carpeting rather than nine should save an average of $1.25 per vehicle, . . . $8 million to $9 million a year.
- Stocking just five kinds of air filters rather than 18 will save 45 cents per vehicle, or $3 million annually.

—from The Edmonton Journal

8. The decision made by Ford would be more easily made in a public enterprise economy than in a private enterprise economy because economic planners

A. would be guided by market forces
B. try to stimulate spending by the business sector
C. could draw productive resources from the entire nation
D. need to worry less about meeting consumer expectations

Use the following quotation to answer questions 10 to 13.

You cannot bring about prosperity by discouraging thrift. You cannot strengthen the weak by weakening the strong. You cannot help the wage earner by pulling down the wage payer. You cannot further the brotherhood of man by encouraging class hatred. You cannot keep out of trouble by spending more than you earn. You cannot build character and courage by taking away man’s initiative and independence. You cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they could and should do for themselves.

—attributed to Abraham Lincoln

10. Lincoln most clearly supports the preservation of the principles of

A. fairness and equality
B. self-reliance and self-sufficiency
C. economic competition and compassion
D. personal material welfare and social welfare

11. Karl Marx would agree with Lincoln’s claim that ultimately you cannot

A. “strengthen the weak by weakening the strong”
B. “help the wage earner by pulling down the wage payer”
C. “further the brotherhood of man by encouraging class hatred”
D. “build character and courage by taking away man’s initiative and independence”

12. Collectively, Lincoln’s claims would be regarded today by most Canadians as

A. radical
B. socialist
C. anarchist
D. conservative

13. Many modern governments have contradicted Lincoln’s assertion that “You cannot bring about prosperity by discouraging thrift” by

A. borrowing and spending to combat recession
B. raising interest rates to encourage saving
C. raising taxes on most luxury items
D. restricting the money supply
After Margaret Thatcher and Ronald Reagan came to power in 1979 and 1980, many a harsh word was spoken about the postwar economic policies pursued by the world’s richest countries.

Over the next decade, [they] deliberately walked away from all the policies that had made their countries wealthy and compassionate at the same time.

The postwar rebuilding of the western economies was achieved through the leadership, direction and, where necessary, the direct intervention of governments.

Those postwar governments educated people, looked after public health, took care of the poorest, made sure that the society and the economy had a clear direction.

Thatcher threw it away. To her, and to Reagan, governments were a problem, not a solution. [Governments] got in the way of business [and] stopped the natural functioning of the market. They had to be cut down to size.

—from The Edmonton Journal, 1994

14. This editorial comment is highly critical of

A. interventionist principles
B. supply-side economic theory
C. demand-side economic theory
D. democratic socialist principles

15. The writer displays a bias in favour of

A. state control of productive resources
B. reduced government funding for social programs
C. “cradle-to-grave” security based on the Soviet model
D. government programs based on Keynesian economics

16. A capitalist would most likely categorize the writer as being

A. radical
B. moderate
C. left-wing
D. conservative

17. The policy of glasnost was initially introduced into the Soviet Union to

A. reduce inequalities in workers’ incomes
B. establish the principles of collectivization in rural areas
C. promote greater political dialogue and discussion within Soviet society
D. increase presidential power through constitutional restrictions on the Supreme Soviet
18. To counter recessionary trends, a government in a nation with a market-oriented economy would most likely introduce

A. sizable layoffs in the civil service
B. a reduction in small business subsidies
C. a significant increase to consumer interest rates
D. greater tax exemptions and concessions to corporations

Use the following political spectrum to answer questions 19 to 21.

19. On this spectrum, Point II best represents the ideology of

A. fascism
B. communism
C. classical liberalism
D. democratic socialism

20. Government spending and transfer payments have the potential to increase the deficit, fuel inflation, and reduce investment incentives. They sometimes lead to higher taxes, a lower standard of living, and a loss of individual initiative. These policies risk creating higher unemployment and diminishing capital, and may add more people to the welfare rolls.

This argument would be most closely associated with a speaker located ideologically at

A. Point I
B. Point II
C. Point III
D. Point IV
21. The following issue is being debated in a Social Studies 30 classroom:

Should governments attempt to promote economic equality?

If your beliefs fall at Point I on the spectrum, which of the following claims would express your view of this issue?

A. Equality of income is best achieved through direct government control of the means of production.

B. Equality of income is best achieved through indicative planning and coordination of private sector firms.

C. Equality of income will result from the free interplay of individual initiative and entrepreneurship.

D. Equality of income must be denied because people need incentives.

22. The system of government represented by this diagram is present in

A. Canada
B. Sweden
C. the United States
D. the United Kingdom
Use the following sources to answer questions 23 to 26.

Source I

The [democratic] system presupposes that there are certain duties which the average citizen is expected to fulfil, including voting and serving . . . in elected offices at all levels. . . .

The world would be a better place if politics were always so straightforward, but democracy in practice rarely approaches such perfection. . . .

. . . the danger is that [democracy] will not have the strength to continue to advance, having been weakened to the point of ineffectiveness by cynicism, apathy and neglect.

—from The Essence of Democracy

Source II

Only rarely do more than 30 percent of [American] voters in most states turn out to cast ballots in [primary elections]. . . . [This] is merely an extension of the chronically weak U.S. election turnout. Only . . . 50.1 percent of the voting-age population cast ballots in the 1988 election, continuing a steady downward drift that started in 1960. . . . [this] decline in turnout extends to all [social] groups.

23. Which problem common to many modern democracies do the sources raise?

A. Citizen alienation from participatory democracy
B. Inappropriate voter choices in democratic elections
C. The absence of effective leaders in democratic systems
D. The instability of political systems based on democracy

24. The author of Source I assumes that the major danger to democracy originates primarily with

A. lobby groups
B. the voting public
C. elected politicians
D. the constitutional framework

25. Which essential principle of democracy would be immediately jeopardized in the United States if the trend identified in Source II continues?

A. Freedom of dissent
B. Protection of minority rights
C. The right to belong to political parties
D. Majority participation in making political decisions

26. The cartoon (Source III) implies that the reason for the problems described in sources I and II is that many citizens

A. regard the political process as being corrupt
B. view their political leaders as being unapproachable
C. believe they are incapable of participating effectively in the system
D. do not vote because they believe government is too all-encompassing

27. In most democracies, a political party of the centre is typically one whose policies are designed primarily to

A. create a more equitable society
B. achieve ideologically determined goals
C. be flexible to meet emerging conditions
D. reduce the role of government in citizens’ lives
Use the following source to answer questions 28 and 29.

There would be fewer blunders involving society as a whole if big decisions were left entirely to the few political leaders who are naturally equipped with the insight, ability, and charisma to deal with them.

28. Which of the following views is compatible with the opinion expressed in this quotation?

A. The power of the legislative branch should be increased.
B. The frequency of periodic federal elections should be decreased.
C. The use of plebiscites for deciding key issues should be abandoned.
D. The opportunity to debate important societal issues publicly should be increased.

29. The opinion expressed in the quotation is an underlying tenet of

A. fascism
B. socialism
C. liberalism
D. anarchism

30. It is one thing to include a bill of rights in the constitution, but it is more important to create reasonable assurance that its principles will be interpreted and applied.

In Canada, the “assurance” that fundamental rights are “interpreted and applied” is through

A. the secret ballot
B. freedom of expression
C. representation by population
D. courts independent of government

31. The political situation in Russia after the collapse of communism is similar to the political situation in the early years of Weimar Germany for all the following reasons except one. Choose the exception.

A. Currency had become increasingly worthless due to hyperinflation.
B. Political participation was restricted by the adoption of a two-party system of government.
C. Border changes had caused many citizens to become dissatisfied members of ethnic minorities in other states.
D. Extremist parties of the right and left had emerged to capitalize on popular discontent.
32. The author of the passage would likely agree that democracy

A. is as much a system of values as it is a system of government
B. is a more efficient political system than is any other
C. will survive only as long as the majority makes impartial decisions
D. tends to divide society into conflicting majority and minority opinions

33. Every society needs troublemakers but few societies tolerate them. This statement suggests that it is socially beneficial to grant citizens the right

A. to vote
B. to dissent
C. to political equality
D. to equal representation

34. Elections in dictatorships differ from democratic elections in that elections in dictatorships are held primarily to

A. publicize the challenges faced by the government
B. involve citizens in approving the future of their nation
C. offer citizens the pretense of participation in decision making
D. determine who will provide leadership and control decision making

35. Fascist and communist régimes of the twentieth century differ most in the way that they

A. oppose democratic methods of government
B. organize the economic activities of their nations
C. limit political participation to members of a single party
D. restrict freedom of expression through the use of censorship
Use the following sources to answer questions 36 to 38.

Source I

Every member of the League [of Nations] solemnly agrees that it will never go to war without... [submitting] the matter of dispute [to the Council for] arbitration...

If any member of the League ignores these promises... what happens? War? No, not war, but something more tremendous than war. Any nation that overlooks its promises shall be considered to have committed an act of war against the other members of the League. That nation will be shut off from any communication... No goods will be shipped in or out...

... the heart of this covenant is arbitration and discussion. That is the only possible basis for peace in the future.

49. Given the boundaries shown on the map, which group of people had the greatest cause to protest that their right to self-determination had been ignored?

A. The Poles
B. The Czechs
C. The Germans
D. The Austrians

Use the following passage to answer questions 50 and 51.

Perhaps it is inevitable for people, sickened by the destruction and waste of war, to console themselves that out of it will come a better world. Looked at dispassionately, however, it was not reasonable to suppose that six years spent in blowing each other to bits, killing millions and spreading misery and destruction on a scale never before known, could be the preliminary to creating a better world or that armies could fight to and fro across a continent without leaving new problems for those who survived. The war, after all, was not fought to create a better world but to prevent Hitler and the Nazis turning it into a worse one: this was achieved, and let no one underestimate it. The illusion was not victory but what we expected of it.

—Alan Bullock, British historian

50. Despite expressing his disgust toward the destructiveness of war, this historian believes that the

A. political leaders were responsible for causing the war
B. civilians were most seriously affected
C. efforts of the Allies were wasted
D. end justified the means

51. This passage supports which of the following generalizations about the nature of war?

A. The devastation of total war creates a legacy of lasting consequences.
B. Wars are fought for the glory and spoils that are awarded to the victors.
C. Wars are the natural manifestation of nationalist expansionist tendencies.
D. The characteristics of modern warfare preclude swift and decisive victory.
52. Which of the following pairs of developments and consequences is incorrectly matched?

Use the following quotation to answer questions 53 and 54.

Our victory was complete and our objectives within reach when Red China intervened with numerically superior ground forces... the new situation did urgently demand a drastic revision of strategic planning. It has been said in effect that I was a war-monger. Nothing could be further from the truth. I know war as few other men living know it, and nothing, to me, is more revolting... But once war is forced upon us, there is no other alternative than to apply every available means to bring it to a swift end... There are some who, for varying reasons, would appease Red China. They are blind to history’s clear lesson, for history teaches, with unmistakable emphasis, that appeasement but begets new and bloodier wars.

“A HOUSE DIVIDED AGAINST ITSELF...”

—from Richmond News Leader

Source II

In the United Nations, there are precious few common bonds that could help overcome the clash of cross-purposes that inevitably must arise between groups with such divergent ethnic, linguistic, legal, religious, cultural and political environments. To add fuel to the fire, the UN concept is one of unlimited governmental power to impose by force a [common] set of values and conduct on all groups and individuals whether they like it or not. Far from insuring peace, such conditions can only enhance the chances of war.

—from Internationalism: Opposing Viewpoints
58. This Cold War-era cartoon (Source I) expresses the opinion that the

A. non-aligned members of the United Nations had little decision-making power
B. United Nations suffered from the same weaknesses as the League of Nations had
C. bipolar international system undermined United Nations collective security
D. United Nations served as an important bridge between the Soviet and American blocs

59. The speaker in Source II is criticizing the

A. limited power of the United Nations
B. superpower dominance over United Nations’ actions
C. ineffectiveness of United Nations’ economic agencies
D. supranationalist objectives of the United Nations

60. Vietnam is a strategic country in a key area—one of only five or six nations in the world that are truly vital to American interests.

This claim, made during the early 1970s, supported the American foreign policy of

A. deterrence
B. containment
C. isolationism
D. brinkmanship

61. For forty years after 1949, there were no major changes to the European map. This was primarily due to the

A. reluctance of the superpowers to become entangled in European affairs
B. stabilizing influence of the United Nations and its ability to deal with aggression
C. military and political stalemate resulting from the policy of mutual deterrence practised by the dominant powers
D. general agreement that the peace settlement ending the Second World War had left national boundaries consistent with national desires
Use the following comments to answer questions 62 to 64.

Source I

[On the issue of whether nations should abide by international law to resolve disputes,] many people argue that, in a world of sovereign states, a state’s peace, security and independence can be guaranteed only by the possession of arms. They believe that states will always be competitive. It would be unwise, they say, to put much faith in international laws which cannot be enforced. Force, they conclude, is the final judge in the international community.

Source II

The World Court is not the only institution in the international community which deals with questions of international law. It is, however, the highest authority on international law, and its judgements carry considerable prestige and authority. The World Court deals only with disputes between states. Under the UN Charter, its decisions are binding upon UN member-states. . . . The Court’s jurisdiction, or authority to decide in a case, is based on the consent of the states involved in the dispute. This upholds an important principle in international law: the sovereignty of the state. Because it is sovereign, no state is obliged to submit a dispute with another state to an international court.

—both sources from The Canadian Institute for International Peace and Security

62. The statement in Source I that “Force . . . is the final judge in the international community” would have been most strongly opposed by

A. President Woodrow Wilson in 1919
B. Prime Minister Winston Churchill in 1940
C. President Leonid Brezhnev in 1979
D. Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher in 1982

63. The key phrase in Source II that clearly defines the importance of a nation’s sovereignty is

A. “its decisions are binding”
B. “no state is obliged to submit”
C. “its judgements carry considerable prestige”
D. “the highest authority on international law”
64. According to Source II, on which of the following cases would the World Court be prepared to rule?

A. A group of political leaders demand recognition of Quebec’s sovereignty
B. Bosnian government leaders accuse Serbian generals of committing genocide
C. Chechen nationalists appeal for an opportunity to express their demands for self-determination
D. The Canadian and Spanish governments agree to arbitration of their respective claims to fishing rights

65. The creation of the Baltic states following the disintegration of the Russian Empire and their re-emergence as independent nations following the disintegration of the Soviet Union are examples of nations

A. encouraging imperialism
B. practising supranationalism
C. achieving self-determination
D. establishing spheres of influence

66. Which of the following problems would most likely bring G7 Nations, WTO members, and IMF executives together in a problem-solving session?

A. A world-wide economic recession
B. A blatant violation of human rights
C. The rapid deterioration of the global ecosystem
D. The development of new weapons of mass destruction

67. Ethnic rivalry has replaced ideological disputes as the greatest threat to global stability.

Supporters of this view would point to evidence provided by recent conflicts in

A. China and Cuba
B. Haiti and Somalia
C. Nicaragua and Lebanon
D. Rwanda and the Balkans
Use the following cartoon to answer questions 68 to 70.

68. The nature of the dispute between the United States and Cuba that underlies the cartoon is fundamentally
   A. ethnic
   B. military
   C. ideological
   D. territorial

69. The cartoon highlights recent American attempts to advance its foreign policy regarding Cuba by
   A. undertaking direct military intervention in Cuba
   B. applying trade sanctions against Cuba’s trading partners
   C. supplying rebel guerrilla movements operating within Cuba
   D. seeking Security Council support for international economic sanctions against Cuba
70. The cartoonist is most critical of

A. Cuban government policy toward the United States
B. American attempts to influence Canadian foreign policy
C. Canada’s failure to uphold its treaty obligations with the United States
D. Canada’s reluctance to support the use of collective security to punish Cuba

Part B: Written Response

Description

Part B consists of an essay assignment worth 30% of the total examination mark.

You are to take and defend a position on either Topic A or Topic B for your essay. If you write on both topics, only the first will be marked.

Evaluation

Your essay will be evaluated according to these four categories:

• Exploration of the Issue
• Defence of Position
• Quality of Examples
• Quality of Language and Expression

Instructions

• Use blue or black ink if you are writing your essay by hand.

• Be sure to indicate your choice of topic in the space provided on the back cover.

Instructions For Students Using Word Processors

• Format your work using a 12-point or larger serif font such as Times, New York, or Courier. Double-space your final copy.

Written Response—Essay Assignment

Choose one of the following issues for your essay. Be sure to indicate your choice in the space provided on the back cover.

Topic A

Some people believe that governments have a responsibility to protect the public good by regulating the activities of the private sector in the economy. Others support deregulation, believing that government interference in the economy is ultimately counterproductive.

To what extent should governments regulate the private sector to protect the public interest?

In your essay, take and defend a position on this issue.

or

Topic B

Some people believe that every nation has the sovereign right to formulate domestic and foreign policy without external interference. Others believe that some nations, by virtue of their status and power, are legitimately entitled to exert influence over the domestic and foreign policies of lesser states.

To what extent are great powers justified in exerting influence over the affairs of lesser states?

In your essay, take and defend a position on this issue.
